Propaganda --

Paris -- Alan, you're a dupe!

St. Petersburg -- Tsar Ivan of Russia made the long-expected declaration of war between Russia and Germany. After the official declaration he lifted his hands to silence the cheers of the crowd and said, "Believe me, this is not a happy occasion. War must be met with lasting determination and not fleeting cheers. War is a solemn and atrocious result of Man's inability to revere the rights of others. I have no desire to send Russian sons to their deaths but we have known for quite some time that our hopes for peace were dim. The Germans insist on disregarding our rights so we must insist on German surrender. I only hope that I will see peace restored to the Russian people in my lifetime."

Then the seventy-four year-old Tsar asked for the renewed strength of the Russian people and left St. Petersburg with Count Alexis Trubloff, his chief advisor, to review troops in Warsaw.

Vienna -- In light of Germany's failure to remove its army from Austrian soil, the King is left no alternative but to attack the German invaders.

Propaganda --

Berlin -- The German Emperor, Kaiser Fritz von Rühkzack, has decided to demote Field Marshal Klaus von Santa. "Von Santa," the Kaiser said, "Hat mir zwei Tulippen von Picardy gesendet. Also he hat die Tulippen zu mir gesendet bei Reindeervagon. Ein Vagon dat vas bei nur ein rot-nozzled Reindeer gepullt. Dieser Reindeer var so trunk dat he hat ein rot nozzle und vent aroundt humming Weinachten Lieder."

Brandenburg Forest -- A reindeer, answering to the name of Rudolph, was seen here gamboling with friends. Not only were the members of Rudolph's party visibly inebriated, but they seemed to be amusing themselves by throwing darts at pictures of Kaiser Fritz von Rühkzack and Prince Ruprecht. When questioned Rudolph made the following statement: "What do they care? The snaps are icky likenesses anyway. And you can tell your dirty old Kaiser that my nose isn't red, it's pussycat pink. And, Sweetie, I have this marvey little cape and a pair of lavender stretch slacks that set it off. The whole outfit is just fab, Honey."

Munich -- General Helmut Schmellinger was seen here today eating in the Hofbrau Haus and was asked to comment on recent European developments. "This is foorish," he said. "We Germans speak perfect Engrish and the attempts of foreign press to srander us by representing us as having accents are redicurous. I was educated in your country at U.C.R.A. and I rearize whate good Engrish is." General Schmellinger then bowed and returned to his rice pudding.

Paris -- Field Marshal Klaus von Santa was asked to comment on his demotion. "Ich hat nichts gehort it yet. Mein troops is in Picardy but ich vas behindt geleftet. Ich know nottinks from Reindeer und Tulippen but if you see dat crazy Rudolph tell him I vant mein lavender pants back."

No source given -- A certain move caused a certain somebody to lose Norway. How about a little non-aggression there!

Propaganda --

Rome (June 2) -- His Holiness Pope Emmanuel was dismayed by the poorly-veiled German request for Italy to attack France. Pope Emmanuel's reply is: "The Social Christian State of Italy shall never make war upon her Christian neighbors. France is considered such a neighbor -- as is Germany."

Naples (June 15) -- Today the stately, steel-gray ships of the Italian Geophysical & Philanthropical Society slowly glided out of the harbor and into the Mediterranean. Rumors from Asia Minor have it that the Sultan of the Ottomans has ordered completed several new battleships of an advanced design. From all appearances the Turks have ignored the Pope's plea for demilitarizing the ancient islands and their waters of the Aegean Sea. Italy's attempts at maintaining the peace in Asia Minor were wasted on deaf ears.

Rome (July 2) -- A radio message was received today from the IGPS ship Michelangelo Buonarroti. The message reported that the Michelangelo was under cannon fire from an unidentified warship and was aflame. The message then ended. For the moment the Government has no information that would explain the terrible fate of the unarmed ship of science.

Rome (August 24) -- The Foreign Secretary handed the Turkish Ambassador Italy's declaration of war. The Ottoman Empire violated every accepted rule of international law when her battleships sank the unarmed Michelangelo Buonarroti. Such violations cannot be ignored.

The Pope sent to Vienna today a special ambassador to discuss with the Habsburgs the contributions Italy may be able to make in the war with the Turk. It is hoped that a joint command will be organized so that the military campaigns against Turkey will be concerted efforts.

Deadline for FALL, 1902 moves and propaganda -- Noon, Thurs., March 2.

Propaganda --

Athens Forum (October 23, 1901) -- Editorial: "...and now the once-mighty Republic of Greece is divided in a great war. The powers of the insidious Austria-Hungary and the barbaric Turkish nation are both trying to take over our country. So far they have stood each other off successfully. But the Turkish fleet which has been moved into the Aegean Sea threatens the balance of power which has saved our country from oppression by one of the two so far. However, if Austria-Hungary can get Italy to support an attack on Greece with its fleet Ionian Sea, the Republic might be saved."

Constantinople Bulletin -- The Gamesmaster is a sneak, hiding in Switzerland while the rest of us fight!

GM -- So, you want to make something of it????

London -- Paris is reminded to take a look at the history books which she opened and remember a certain June in 1944.

The Moscow Diplomatic Magazine of Diplomacy (MDMD) -- The Ministers of Tactics and Maneuvering representing Kings Dobsonian and Alexandrian have had their wrists slapped by their respective kings. It was suggested to them, that when they plan a "sneaky" attack, they should at least notify their allies that they are doing so.

Rome -- Generalissimo Pasania, speaking for the Italian Military Command (Official) declared that the Austria-Hungarian devils, who refused to allow the supreme might of Italy to take the port of Trieste without opposition. /sic/ Then they had the gall to offer to convoy our army Venice to Albania. Then they shanghaied our messengers with the battleplans. They shall be destroyed by the awesome might of Italy.

Sevastopol -- Austria talks too much!

Vatican City (Official) -- In a bulletin to all right-thinking Catholics, the Pope announced that, concerning the message from England, they were independent of the Pope because on their two-bit mud flat the Church of England reigned supreme! "Hah!!! Whether or not they believe in my power as the Prophet Incarnate, it is still nevertheless omnipresent, in all fields of life. Therefore the English should yield to the power of the Pope." (Unofficial) The Pope announced after his interview that the present King of England, a direct descendant of the infamous Henry VIII, practices wholeheartedly the religion his ancestor professed, and said what he did only because of political pressure. He is forgiven because his sins are minor, and he is trying hard to make his ministers attack some neutral (like Russia). Then he remarked that this in no way interferes with military negotiations with Russia which may be held in the near future, concerning the imminent destruction of the Austria-Hungarian infidels.

No source given -- Berlin: This is only the beginning. Wait until next season.

Propaganda --

Alcluyd -- I'm not dead, just busy. If I didn't write, I forgot. Whatever London wants is O.K. with me. I approve all proposed alliances.

Berlin -- Holland: I'm coming to help you!

Constantinople -- Sultan Sauron has again dispatched a mounted rider to Kaiser Max III in Vienna, this time demanding that a certain bauble dear to his Overlord be returned. The Kaiser pleaded that this "Ring" had fallen into the Danube and was presumed to have washed out into the Black Sea. A tolken force, under ace commander Sir Ballantine, an Englishman, was sent to sound out the truth of this improbable story. "He's going to be sorry, man, if this story isn't so," said Commander Ballantine. To thwart piracy, Sultan Sauron has made it known that Ballantine is the only authorized person in search of this trinket.

Constantinople -- Word has been released that the leader of the rebels who had taken control of this city until put to rout by loyal forces has been captured and committed to a mental institution. "Big Brother", as he was popularly called, seems to suffer from paranoia.

Denmark -- The Kingdom of Denmark and Sweden wishes to have peace with all of Scandinavia. If our great lands unite we will be able to bring peace to the ailing Continent.

Naples -- Major General Ibex, Assistant Chief of Staph for Infection, noted that intelligence was inversely proportional to rank. This, he said, was an ACSIOM.

Rumania -- Alderson, come on, get with it. As Dr. Leary says (1,2,3 O'Leary -- No, that's not right...), "Dropout, turn on, tune in!" If you want this alliance to be LSD (Late; Slow and Dead), keep on your present course!

Deadline for FALL, 1902 moves -- Noon, Thurs. March 9. Replacement moves (Koning and anyone else) needed for BUL, POR, ROM, SMY; please send moves for all.
